Dear Bill:

The joint Department of Defense-DCI seminar on World War II lessons-learned started off well under your direction and proceeded superbly for the three days. I came away greatly encouraged by the caliber of government people we met.

Thank you for your copy of your Revolutionary War book "Where and How the War Was Fought." Your reference paragraphs were indicative of how well Washington deceived the British. He was a master in that field, as well as others.

My thanks also for all of [redacted] organizing ability. No matter the problem he faces it with a smile.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Bill Baumer
